The Pastoral Perspective

As I write this, a crew is hard at work paving Kimball Street, where the parsonage is located. The paving is the final stage of a road and sewer project begun many months ago. Soon, in a few days hopefully, the work will be done. And then?

The steamrollers, pavers, and dump trucks will all leave the neighborhood, and cars will begin to zip by in either direction. While potholes will have been filled, water will flow better, and lots of stuff beneath the street's surface will have been made more robust, vehicles will continue to exceed the speed limit. The intersection will continue to have stop signs that many deem to be optional. In short, nothing much will change.

This is depressing, in a way.

How often do we seek change, improvement in our lives, only to revert to our previous bad habits? We may well undertake a lot of work to alter our behavior, but we—as individuals and as a society—often return to doing what we know best, which involves a lot of self-sabotage.

We have a federal election coming this fall, one which, at present, involves a rerun of the same face-off we endured four years ago. We have inflation. We have rising interest rates. We have a fraught international situation. The climate seems to be disordered.

You can see where this is going. You've read enough. I'll stop complaining.

I hope we can use the rest of the summer wisely and productively, that we can reset ourselves and try to do better when September rolls around.

While we may want to give up, God does not. I truly believe that God is with us, all the time.

Even when we're being stupid.

Even when we're lost.

Even when we've given up hope.

So take a few moments to read your bible; take some time to pray. If you're away this summer, visit a new church or take in a service online.

Remember: God—one of whose names is "Emmanuel"—is with us. Always.

Yours faithfully, Steve

NEWS AND NOTES

CHURCH COUNCIL

At Council in June, Chair Jon Scott invited committee updates from all those present, having circulated the Treasurer's and Pastor's reports. For the Diaconate, Rev. Steve Silver reported that Deb Scott chaired the Deacons' June meeting, and the group discussed promoting FCC's visibility through service projects. They planned for the resumption of Community Dinners in the fall, on the fourth Sunday each month.

Speaking as Mission and Social Action chair, Valerie Nevel noted an overlap between MSA and Deacons, wondering whether the two groups might somehow collaborate—or even merge in a possible bylaws revision. Linda Gerlach recognized that with aging and reduced membership, the two groups could at least help each other out. Jon reminded everyone that the resumption of Community Dinners will rely on inviting outside volunteers to help, with our members just providing guidance, rather than doing all the work. Walter Scott noted that many local companies encourage employee service projects.

For the Board of Governors, Walter has done preliminary assessment of small repair projects in the narthex and balcony, as well as the front deck and access ramp. The latter, it's widely agreed, should be replaced with composite material that doesn't require painting. Jon also reported he'd spoken with Phil Hammond about the need for minor adjustment in a small area of Sanctuary flooring; he and Walter plan to address that this summer. Corrine Erskine asked for more details about the decking replacement, wondering which contractor we'd consult and when the work might happen. Walter is gathering information on materials and speaking to Wayne Braley about doing the work, ideally before the winter. Lastly, Walter explained, in response to an inquiry from the Memorial Gardens Committee, that he has no plans to maintain or trim the yew bushes in the front or to clear leaves from the property. He is willing to pass that job off to those who have worked on the gardens.

Introducing discussion about church finances, Trustee chair Valerie Nevel asked whether the reported income total for stewardship included any portion of the large stock gift received in late 2023; Administrator Brian Clancy confirmed that it does. Jon noted that the Finance Committee would address that ambiguity and enable clearer reporting in future. He added that he expects to have an online-giving option in place by the end of the summer, explaining that a link from our website will access a site where donations can be made.

Valerie reported that the Trustees will meet this fall to review UCF accounts, before which they and Finance will together discuss the church's investment policy. She also explained that auditor Lisa Bybee, who conducted several interviews and reviewed materials for our full audit, would soon be completing her final report.

Turning to other Council matters, Corrine inquired about the status of the bylaws revision, wondering why no progress has been made. After Jon explained that we lack volunteer

Committee Meetings

The following regular meetings will happen remotely via Zoom:

Diaconate 7/8 and 9/9, 7:00

Council 8/27 and 9/10, 7:00

MSA 8/26 and 9/23, 7:00

For information on other groups' plans to meet, contact the church office.

capacity to drive this project, she asked whether new leadership and energy might come from elsewhere on the subcommittee. Valerie then offered to help, and Jon clarified that the priority is to identify the larger structural framework of governance needs, not simply to revise language. Walter asked what he could do as Board of Governors chair to move the process along; the Board had previously submitted descriptive changes, but Jon again stressed the structural framework. Both Steve and Valerie noted legal imperatives for having current, appropriate bylaws, particularly with regard to fiduciary management. Corrine reiterated the importance of simply having this subcommittee meet.

Referring to his pastor's report, Steve invited Council members to review the proposed job description for a Christian Education director, which he'd circulated prior to the meeting. He asked them to submit feedback for a discussion by the Personnel Committee. Steve also noted that he has planned a week of study leave at the end of July, along with vacation time including most of August.

Steve then reported briefly on the City of Lebanon's conversations about serious issues related to the food trucks on South Park St. He also shared an update on the City's troubling intention to make Church Street one-way (northbound) as part of the new fire station project. The City has poorly communicated this plan, failing to give adequate notice about a decisive May 15 hearing. We are exploring how to respond, with the hope that the City will consider additional feedback. Brian pointed out that the Fire Department itself is not calling for the change as part of its station design; it is instead a matter of minimum street width for two-way traffic. Council then voted unanimously to authorize Steve to speak for FCC in this matter.

NEWS AND NOTES

Jon concluded with a consideration of Council's summer meeting plans, recognizing that committees and subgroups have their own work to do in the meantime. It was generally agreed that Council could skip July and plan a meeting for late August.

DIACONATE

In addition to considering pastoral care concerns, the Diaconate has been discussing how to improve its visibility in congregational life. Deb Scott is working to create a large, easel-mounted display of all current deacons, with names and photos, including Rev. Silver. The displays would be located in the Narthex as well as the Parish Hall.

The Diaconate has also reviewed and updated its member contact lists, confirming or revising each deacon's assignments. Only local members of the congregation who have sustained some relatively recent connection will be assigned a deacon.

Church Street to Be Closed Starting August 13

Please note that the construction of the new Lebanon fire station—beginning with the demolition of the old one, which starts in August—requires the closure of the northern end of Church Street, from South Park St to the entrance to FCC's parking lot. Access to FCC's lot and lower Church St will be possible only via detour along Water and Valley Sts or from Spring St. Upon completion of the station, the City of Lebanon intends to convert that segment of Church St permanently to one-way, northbound traffic.

THE LIFE OF OUR CONGREGATION

A New Directory Is Coming... But We Still Need Photos!

Our last printed directory was published in 2016, eight years ago! We will soon be offering a new, digital version, one that can easily be updated as our congregation grows and changes. It will be available to everyone as a PDF document, with printed copies available upon request. If you haven't yet done so, please submit a current photo (along with any updated contact information) to the church office as soon as possible. Photos should be JPG or PNG files, in a frontal, head-and-shoulders format clearly showing faces (like the fine examples shown above!).

EVERYONE who feels connected to FCC's congregation is invited to be listed in the directory—regardless of whether or not they have formally joined the church as a covenant member.

SUMMER SCENES. The season brings lovely flowers to our gardens, annual events such as the Frederick Douglass reading in Colburn Park, and plenty of great music. It also means several FCC folks taking part in the Prouty, helping raise money for cancer research at DH.
